Having grown through strict reforms, entrepreneurial Seychelles is making a splash on the global stage as it shows there is much more to the paradise islands than 5-star luxury.

With excellent sea and air links, a strategic global location and a time zone that is easily navigable with the world’s major financial centers east and west, Seychelles is a paradise for businesses looking to win in a sustainable and efficient world.

A group of beautiful islands off the coast of Africa, Seychelles offers the perfect holiday for those who want to combine luxury with peace and quiet, although there are plenty of attractions for those who want something more active. Chosen as the honeymoon destination for the world’s most-wedded wedding couple in May this year — the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, aka William and Kate — the islands prove once again that their winning vacation formula is fit for a future king.

This May was also a winner for Seychelles’ President James Alix Michel, who proceeded for Seychelles’ President James to create the basis for growth. Last year the economy grew at around 6 percent. “We would like to privatize some of our more state-owned enterprises, and this year we have managed to privatize a few of these companies,” he said.

“The reform ensured that we had a positive outlooks. Of 6 percent in 2010, and a Fitch," he added. "Fitch has published the report "We have abundant opportunities in the Seychelles."""
