Sri Lanka: Asia’s emerging wonder

Decades of political and trade relations between Sri Lanka and Japan are being rekindled in the light of a newly stable nation determined to shine.

As Sri Lanka Minister of Reconstruction Development zig-zagged out of the airport, he took the first step towards renewal, in a nation eager to whip up and rethink itself. After 10 years of war, and 23 of Soviet occupation, the land has been neglected and impoverished. The people have been stratified in two communities, which have earned a lot of bad imports, and made the rice sea area poor out of the last few years. We are living in the name of the nation.

Our apparent industry is growing very fast. In the past, we used to be in the dark, now we also produce the raw material. When the war ended in 2009, we knew how to control corruption. Sri Lanka is now a country of tourism, we have not only tourism. The Ministry of Tourism and Urban Development, explains this trend. We have introduced a special tourism and technology package to attract tourists.

We launched a special campaign in Japan with the help of Tourism and economic development.

Tourists want a special type of hotel and food, and we are now inviting Japanese investors to help achieve that goal.

When peace came to Sri Lanka, windows of opportunity are beginning to present themselves. Many investors now have a chance to invest in Sri Lanka and realize their dreams. It is our ability to attract and retain tourists that has been a crucial factor in the growth of the tourism industry.

Many investors have started building resorts and developing real estate projects. There are many opportunities in capital. Colombo, and we have received a lot of foreign tourism to the World Bank to make it more scenic. There are also many opportunities in tourism and travel.

Aviation and Airline Services of Sri Lanka LAC (2014) is serving the country in this direction, and has been the leader in our field. We also have the facility for domestic and international tourists. For all of these reasons we want to promote every area. As I said earlier, we are trying to make a tourist-friendly country, and the result is visible. We have been registered with the Ministry of Tourism and Urban Development, which is a great step.

A booming industrial sector is helping to turn Sri Lanka’s fortunes around, with Made In Sri Lanka-stamped exports now reaching even wider markets.

With tempting government incentives and the country’s unique position in the Indian Ocean, the industrial sector in Sri Lanka is growing rapidly. The Sri Lanka Industrial Development Board (BOI) has recorded a total of 10,179 applications for new industrial projects in the last two years. The Board has approved around 6,000 of these applications, and has implemented more than 2,300 projects.

Sri Lanka has also become the focal point of the country’s economic strategy to attract more FDI. The government has implemented a series of measures to create a conducive business environment, including tax holidays, duty-free imports, and access to skilled labor.

The BOI has also implemented a number of policies to encourage exports. The country has a diverse range of high-quality products—from apparel to tea, and from gemstones to pharmaceuticals. In 2011, the country exported over $10 billion worth of goods, with the top five destinations being the U.S., UK, China, Japan, and Singapore.

Opportunities for Sri Lanka in the European Market

Sri Lanka’s proximity to Europe, its export-friendly location, and its strong economic ties with the European Union make it an attractive market for Sri Lankan products. The Sri Lanka-India Free Trade Agreement (HTEA) came into force in 2010, and this has opened up new opportunities for Sri Lankan exports to the EU.
