Rejuvenating the Franco–Japanese relationship

France is famously looking towards Asia and recasting its economic relations, and Japan is also looking towards France for its comprehensive economic relationship. The country is now looking towards Asia for its trade and investment opportunities.

A true global solutions provider

France has a comprehensive strategy aimed at becoming a leading global solutions provider with market-leading solutions and technologies. The country has a strong tradition of excellence in technology, science, and innovation, and it is committed to providing global solutions that are sustainable and effective.

Committed to the French agriculture industry

The French agriculture industry is committed to being a global leader in sustainable agriculture and food production. The country has a strong tradition of agricultural innovation and is committed to developing new technologies and solutions to address global challenges such as climate change and food security.

Japanese technology and sensibility find an easy fit in France

Japan and France have a long history of cultural exchange and collaboration in technology and innovation. Japanese technology and sensibility find an easy fit in France, which is known for its high standards and attention to detail.

French agriculture is a leading global solutions provider

French agriculture is a leading global solutions provider, with a strong tradition of innovation and excellence. The country is committed to developing new technologies and solutions to address global challenges such as climate change and food security.

Moving Mazda further in accelerating France

Mazda has increased its presence in France, with a new plant in the country. The company's focus is on developing advanced and environmentally friendly technologies.

Trusted partner to industry works across borders

Yamaha is a leading global solutions provider with a strong presence in France. The company's focus is on developing advanced and environmentally friendly technologies.

Leaving new jobs in the world

The French government is committed to creating new jobs in the world. The country is working to develop new technologies and solutions to address global challenges such as climate change and food security.

The future of production

The future of production in France is driven by a combination of advanced technologies and sustainable practices. The country is committed to developing new solutions that are environmentally friendly and economically viable.

The future of agriculture

The future of agriculture in France is driven by a combination of advanced technologies and sustainable practices. The country is committed to developing new solutions that are environmentally friendly and economically viable.