AEROGEN: JAPAN BREATHES NEW LIFE INTO PIONEERING IRISH COMPANY

Aerogen is the world leader in acute care aerosol drug delivery. It sells its commercial products in 30 countries through its pioneering aerosol technology. Among these countries is Japan, where Aerogen has been in the market since 1997, including the American Association of Respiratory Care (AARC) Japan. Aerogen has a strong presence in Japan and has launched a new flagship Ireland House in Tokyo.

DEVERSE: PROVIDING SOLUTIONS EFFECTIVELY

Diverse is not your typical tech company. Only 17 years old, the company has grown from a one-person operation to a company that now employs more than 50 people and boasts many clients such as Royal Bank of Scotland, the Landmark Trust, and the Irish National Lottery. Diverse offers a comprehensive suite of services, including cybersecurity, website development, and mobile app development.

ARRN CHEMICAL CO.: FORMING BONDS WITH JAPAN

Located in central Ireland, Arran Chemical Co. (Arran) is a newcomer in the pharmaceutical and fine chemical market. With its offices in both Ireland and Japan, the company has established a strong reputation in the Japanese market. Arran serves more than 50 Japanese and international companies.

LAMBS: A PERFECT BLEND OF AGE-OLD REFINEMENT AND MODERN-DAY DARLING

Lambay is a heritage brand that combines traditional Irish whiskey-making techniques with modern-day distillation processes. The brand is known for its smooth, well-balanced flavor profile that appeals to both traditional and contemporary whiskey drinkers.

WALSH: A WELL-ACCLAIMED PAIRING IN JAPAN

Walsh is a well-known Irish whiskey brand that has been recognized for its quality and craftsmanship. The brand is known for its rich history and heritage, which is reflected in its products.

TAKEDA: DEEPLY COMMENDED TO FURTHER GROWTH IN IRELAND

In light of the COVID-19 pandemic, Takeda is one of the largest drug manufacturers in Japan and has become one of the key companies in the Irish health care ecosystem by introducing new treatment services in pigmentation and skin disorders, providing a stable supply of medical and emergency services to potentially life-saving treatments.

SPOTLIGHT: IRISH WHISKEY

Ireland's premium brands in high spirits

Although the ongoing coronavirus pandemic has affected all industries in various ways and in varying degrees, most of Ireland's exports, specifically pharmaceuticals and health care, have remained strong. This is particularly true for the Irish whiskey industry, which continued to grow despite the pandemic. In this context, we can see how the government continues to support and promote the industry to attract new investors.

AEROGEN: JAPAN BREATHES NEW LIFE INTO PIONEERING IRISH COMPANY

Aerogen is the world leader in acute care aerosol drug delivery. It sells its commercial products in 30 countries through its pioneering aerosol technology. Among these countries is Japan, where Aerogen has been in the market since 1997, including the American Association of Respiratory Care (AARC) Japan. Aerogen has a strong presence in Japan and has launched a new flagship Ireland House in Tokyo.

DEVERSE: PROVIDING SOLUTIONS EFFECTIVELY

Diverse is not your typical tech company. Only 17 years old, the company has grown from a one-person operation to a company that now employs more than 50 people and boasts many clients such as Royal Bank of Scotland, the Landmark Trust, and the Irish National Lottery. Diverse offers a comprehensive suite of services, including cybersecurity, website development, and mobile app development.

ARRN CHEMICAL CO.: FORMING BONDS WITH JAPAN

Located in central Ireland, Arran Chemical Co. (Arran) is a newcomer in the pharmaceutical and fine chemical market. With its offices in both Ireland and Japan, the company has established a strong reputation in the Japanese market. Arran serves more than 50 Japanese and international companies.

LAMBS: A PERFECT BLEND OF AGE-OLD REFINEMENT AND MODERN-DAY DARLING

Lambay is a heritage brand that combines traditional Irish whiskey-making techniques with modern-day distillation processes. The brand is known for its smooth, well-balanced flavor profile that appeals to both traditional and contemporary whiskey drinkers.

WALSH: A WELL-ACCLAIMED PAIRING IN JAPAN

Walsh is a well-known Irish whiskey brand that has been recognized for its quality and craftsmanship. The brand is known for its rich history and heritage, which is reflected in its products.

TAKEDA: DEEPLY COMMENDED TO FURTHER GROWTH IN IRELAND

In light of the COVID-19 pandemic, Takeda is one of the largest drug manufacturers in Japan and has become one of the key companies in the Irish health care ecosystem by introducing new treatment services in pigmentation and skin disorders, providing a stable supply of medical and emergency services to potentially life-saving treatments.

SPOTLIGHT: IRISH WHISKEY

Ireland's premium brands in high spirits

Although the ongoing coronavirus pandemic has affected all industries in various ways and in varying degrees, most of Ireland's exports, specifically pharmaceuticals and health care, have remained strong. This is particularly true for the Irish whiskey industry, which continued to grow despite the pandemic. In this context, we can see how the government continues to support and promote the industry to attract new investors.