Taiwan is one of the freest countries in the world and due to its geographic location, Taiwan has long been one of Japan’s cooperative partners, commerce, investment and industry.”

For example, since Oct. 15, Taiwan’s economy has continued to perform well and the Taiwan Stock Exchange is continuing to perform well and the Taiwan Stock Exchange is expected to reach 4.64% in 2021.

It is important to strengthen Taiwan-Japan relation in order to achieve sustainable economic growth. We believe our cooperation will continue to strengthen and together we will find solutions to global challenges.”

Taiwan and Japan are both small and isolated islands, but their economies are diverse and their businesses are capable of creating a strong regional partner with a strong regional and international presence.

Economic cooperation between Taiwan and Japan is vital that foreign companies and investors are driving Taiwan’s development and investment.
